BEST TRADE PUBLICATION IN OHIO

Boutique Design

Staff

Beautifully designed magazine with a strong idea book feel. Text provided a good overview of industry and design trends, but with less actionable information than competing entries.

Second Place

The College Store Magazine

Staff

Excellent packaging of related content into easily digestible and actionable information. I particularly appreciated the diverse and specific examples of what different college stores are doing to improve their business success. The idea sharing in the A Cool Idea feature is a great way to highlight unique strategies

Great balance of relevant, actionable information along with compelling storytelling a pleasure to read. I felt that if I were a garden center owner or operator, this publication would give me information I could use to make decisions that could improve my business. Fresh Faces of Horticulture was particularly insightful, and Proud to Partner was an inspiring example of business adaptation in the face of tremendous challenges.

BEST NON-DAILY NEWSPAPER IN OHIO: COMMUNITY NEWSPAPER

Third Place

Chagrin Valley Times

Staff

This weekly does a good job of covering its community through a variety stories that are informative and well written. Layout is clean and easy on the eye.

Second Place

Cleveland Jewish News

Staff

This weekly seems to capture all the news and features for the Cleveland Jewish community. Writing is bright with strong leads and front page layout are creative. This should be a “must read” for the local Jewish community.

First Place

Cincinnati Business Courier

Staff

Has all the characteristics of an outstanding weekly--strong reporting and writing, clean, attractive layout and eye-catching photos/illustration. In-depth reporting, such as the look at streetcars in Cincinnati, stand out as being especially informative to its target audience.

Akron Beacon Journal

Great job writing and reporting. Among the highlights: The final moments in the cockpit before the Akron plane crash, the report on autopsies, the fired officers. There was great local reporting in the post-election Community, and I enjoyed the illustrations of the basketball players in the May 1st edition.

First Place

The Plain Dealer

Strong writing across the board. The in-depth reporting on gun violence and efforts to curb it in “Pathways to Peace” especially stood out. Reporters did a good job weaving together data and on-the-ground reporting. I also liked the page design throughout the paper.
