How To Make the No. 1 Podcast In the Nation

presented by <sup>The</sup> PRESSCLUB of Cleveland

in cooperation with PRSA

AMBER HUNT is an award-winning investigative reporter for the Cincinnati Enquirer. She co-created and hosted "Accused." Hunt previously covered crime for the Detroit Free Press and oversaw the Dakotas as a news editor for The Associated Press. She's written three true-crime books – "Dead But Not Forgotten," "All-American Murder" and "See How Much You Love Me" – and is co-author of "The Kennedy Wives: Triumph and Tragedy in America's Most Public Family," a New York Times and Wall Street Journal bestseller. She has appeared on NBC's "Dateline" and A&E's "Crime Stories," among other TV shows.

AMANDA ROSSMAN is an Emmy-award winning photojournalist with the Cincinnati Enquirer. She co-created "Accused." A graduate of the University of Northern Kentucky, she has worked for the Enquirer for 10 years, winning several awards from the Ohio News Photographers Association and The Associated Press during that stint. Most recently, her video entitled "Big Man on Campus" was awarded an Emmy by the Ohio Valley Chapter of the National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences.

AMY WILSON is Enquirer Media's Storytelling Coach, a glorified job title for projects editor and all-purpose writing coach for the Cincinnati Enquirer's narrative work on whatever platform works. She is the editor of "Accused." Her editing work in the last year has also included "Finding Home," a year-long look at the assimilation of the first Syrian refugees in Cincinnati and "The Making of a Musical Monument," a dissection of the making of "Fanfare for the Common Man," composer Aaron Copland's patriotic anthem. Prior to that, she spent 35 years as a general assignment feature writer. She has won multiple awards for her work.

More than 4 million downloads. No. 1 nationally on the iTunes chart. Named one of the best podcasts of 2016 by iTunes, Esquire and Mental Floss.

Three Cincinnati Enquirer journalists set out to reinvestigate the 1978 slaying of a Miami University graduate in Oxford, Ohio. It was the Enquirer's first true-crime podcast. It won't be the last.

Meet the journalists. Find out how they did it. Get your questions answered. And get the story behind the story of "Accused: The Unsolved Murder of Elizabeth Andes."
