Media Credibility: Where It Went and How To Get It Back

Journalism has taken a hit to its credibility after blunders like those of Rolling Stone, Brian Williams and Fareed Zakaria. But are these high-profile transgressions causing permanent damage to our profession? Join us for a panel discussion about the state of media credibility and what we can do to improve it.

Wednesday, May 13 at Windows on the River
11:30 am to 1:30 pm

PANELISTS:

JAN LEACH

*Director, Media Law Center for Ethics & Access School of Journalism and Mass Communication Kent State University
Former editor and VP, Akron Beacon Journal*

BARBARA PAYNTER

“The fear of your magazine or newspaper going out of business or you losing your job because of the economics of print creates pressure throughout the whole industry to shout a little louder, to get more notice, to be first.”

— Ken Auletta, The New Yorker
